

Clarendon Station Upgrade

Transport Access Program

December 2022

New seating at the boarding assistance zone on Platform 1

Work to improve accessibility and commuter parking at Clarendon Station is now complete and open to transport customers.

Additional commuter car parking spaces are now open for public transport customers along Racecourse Road. At the station, there are new seating areas on both platforms at the widened boarding assistance zones.

Other improved station amenities include new tactiles across both platforms, a new family accessible toilet and an upgraded ambulant toilet. New bicycle hoops have been installed near the station entry to Platform 1.

New CCTV, wayfinding signage and lighting have been provided to increase safety and security around the station area.

The Clarendon Station Upgrade has been delivered as part of the Transport Access Program, a NSW Government initiative to provide a better experience for public transport customers by delivering accessible, modern, secure and integrated transport infrastructure across the state.

The new parking spaces have also been delivered as part of the NSW Government's Commuter Car Park Program, providing commuters with more convenient access to public transport at key interchanges and helping to ease congestion on our roads.

Thank you for your patience and understanding during this important project.

Public art at Clarendon Station

As part of the project, we are working with Dharug woman Leanne Watson Redpath and local artists Tina Barahanos and Alexandra Byrne (Barahanos Byrne) on two public art pieces to be installed in the station waiting areas.

For Watson and Barahanos Byrne, their collaboration will bring together a shared connection and love of the environment with a mutual desire for truth telling and healing. We look forward to seeing the art installations in early 2023.

Finishing work

In the coming months, you may notice some finishing work occurring within and around the station. Work activities may include:

- installation of public art
- level crossing improvements

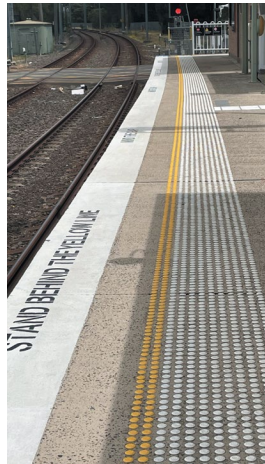

We will keep the community informed about this work as it progresses.
